IDENTITY & BRANDING

IDENTITY & BRANDING

We are a brand, whether we choose to be or not. We're out there—and our members and community are constantly forming opinions about us. Those opinions can be positive, negative or neutral. Those opinions can change over time. The way to put our best foot forward is to be deliberate and consistent with our communication and messaging. We can be most successful in conveying our message by maintaining a unified presence worldwide. We are the standard bearers. Let's work together to help the world see us as we want to see ourselves.

IS A LOGO A BRAND?

“Our logo is a thing—it identifies us on objects and in environments. In and of itself, it doesn’t say a whole lot about the [WIAD or information architecture]. As beautiful or unique as any logo may be, it remains essentially inanimate. Without being placed onto or into something, it has very little meaning. Branding starts when the identifier is placed into an environment. When our logo is placed into positive environments that reflect our goals, values and initiatives, our organization will be well-represented and our desired messages delivered. Placed into a poor or inappropriate environment, the logo may only serve to misrepresent or confuse our goals, values and initiatives, and may reflect negatively on the organization. By the same token, an environment, action, product or service may be spectacular, but without displaying our identifier it may afford us little or no credit for our efforts. Our visual identity—our logo and supporting elements—identifies us. It says who we are. Our brand is the activation and manifestation of our goals, initiatives, mission and values. It demonstrates what we are, and why we are. The purpose of our branding program is to evoke an appropriate emotional response from the viewer by embodying—with all our messages and actions—the positive emotional characteristics of the organization.” - excerpt from AIGA Identity Guidelines 2008

OUR COMMITMENT

- World IA Day is the flagship event of the Information Architecture Institute, a 501(c)6 organization.
- World IA Day is about bringing the information architecture community together. We're fostering links within the local communities and on a global scale. We're sharing information, ideas, and research. We're doing it through unconventional, exciting and engaging IA events next February.
- World IA Day is a one day event that happens simultaneously across the world.
- Attendees live in 25 cities from 15 countries across 6 continents.
- Attendees include information architects, user experience designers, scholars, students, content strategists, entrepreneurs, business leaders and others interested in learning and discussing IA.
- This is a free event and open to the public.

LOGOS

OUR LOGO

You may have noticed, our logo has changed. The essence of the globe remains, but we wanted to create a mark that would best signify the world-wide reach of the event. Perhaps it's subtle, but the facets are meant to visualize the manner in which we bring order to our endeavors. Additionally, the triangles can be used as design elements throughout our collateral materials, if we choose.

Pure Cyan was used because, on the most obvious level, our continents are connected by water. It's bold and clear, while also being easy to print. I want to keep things practical for our partners worldwide. For full color treatments (on web or for those with access to full color printing), there is an additional palette of complimentary colors.

The typeface, DIN, has a clean, modern feel. Its origins reach back to 1905 and the Prussian Rail System. In 1936 it was adopted by the German Institute for Standardization and in the decades since, has become a favorite with designers who appreciate its lean, geometric lines.

LOGO GUIDELINES

SPACING

Always provide an appropriate amount of white space or padding around the World IA Day 2015 Logo. The padding will vary depending on the logo size, but a useful trick is to use the cap height of the typeface to get a rough idea of spacing requirements.

COLOR PALETTE

HOW TO USE OUR PALETTE

Color usage needs to support and reflect the direct and plain spoken message. A stripped-down palette can create a sense of urgency, forthrightness and a ‘tell-it-like-it-is’ attitude. It serves to keep messaging clear and simple.

Our primary colors for 2015 are Pure Cyan, Pure Black and Pure White. Cyan evokes a sense of connectedness to the world, while feeling bright and modern. This is ultimately a “two-color” palette, which is meant to make printing for the various Cities easy and cost-effective. Tints of these colors can be used as-needed.

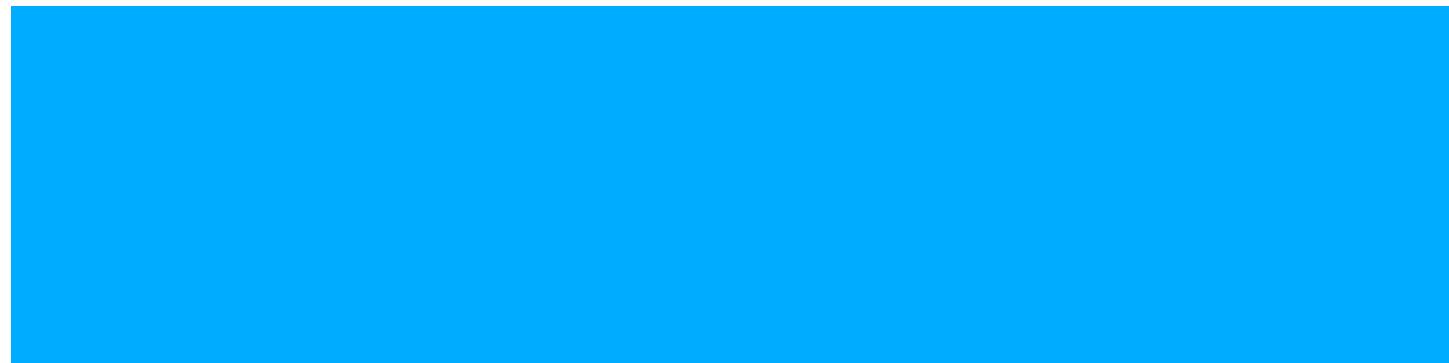

Grey can be used in a variety of ways and is simply a tint of black, this can also factor into ease of use for printing.

Our secondary palette brings Pure Magenta and Pure Yellow for added punches of emphasis. They are bright and direct, yet familiar. They can have equal weight with Pure Cyan, when needed. These colors should only be used at full saturation.

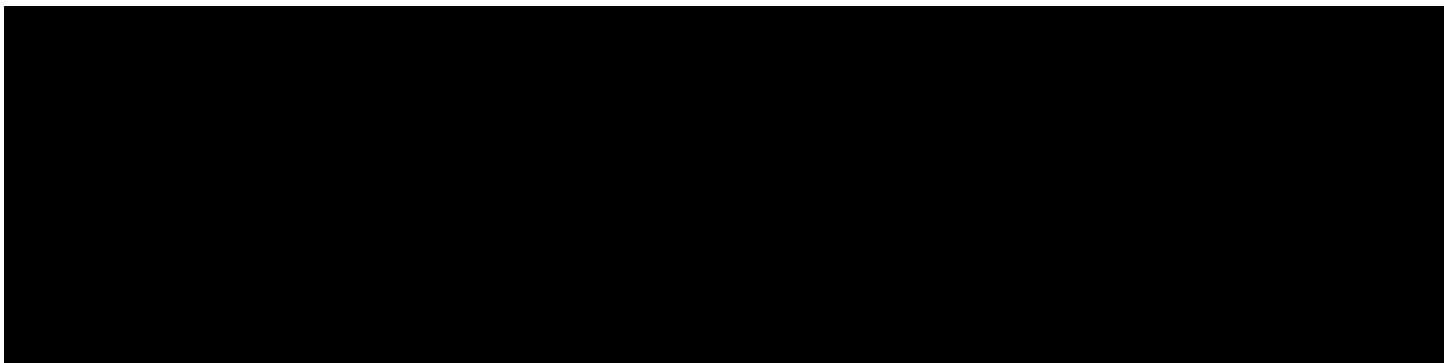

Finally, the tertiary palette brings in Pure Orange and Pure Green when a full spectrum of color is desired. These colors should also only be used at full saturation.

IMAGERY

IDEAS FOR IMAGERY

The examples on the next pages are suggestions to further convey the spirit of order and universality the encompasses World IA Day 2015. You may want to use imagery in your presentations, signage or websites. Since we do not have an image library to provide, we wanted to make things as simple as possible, while also encouraging individual creativity and playfulness that will best convey the events in your individual city. Most importantly, have fun!
